"WHEN ROBBERY FALLS OUT."

A Quarrel Among the Partners in the Illinois State Printing Plant—Crucial—Stop Thief! to Divert Attention.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., May 7.—The publication in two of the Chicago papers, of a rehash of the facts in relation to the state printing contract of 1872, does not indicate any special enterprise on the part of those papers, or of their correspondents, but rather, as is believed, has an interest, in diverting the old printing scandal, and to direct attention from the salary grab of Ray and Shepard, and the defalcations in the Chicago grain inspector's office, and the exposure made of the corruption and mismanagement at the penitentiary. All the facts relating to the letting of the printing contract of 1872 were detailed in the Times at the time, and by subsequent correspondence, in the session of 1874, the matter was made the subject of an investigation, and this was very fully reported in the Times's legislative correspondence then. It is a little remarkable that these reports so enraged the conductors of the State Journal—which concern did the printing and got more than three-fourths of the money paid therefor—that it violently abused the legitimate correspondent of the Times during the late session.

It was currently reported here for some days past that Mr. Phillips, of the State Journal, was preparing to assail his old partner in the state-printing business, Mr. Merritt, of the Register, and the Register to-day charged editorially, that Mr. Phillips is the author or instigator of the letters which appeared in the two Chicago papers as regular correspondence from here. The Register also publishes the following card, which seems to promise further disclosures:

Personal.

In an editorial in the Chicago Journal of the 3d, and in correspondence from this city in the Chicago Tribune and Inter-Ocean of the 6th, the matter of the state printing contract of 1872, which has already occasioned much noise, is again lugged before the public, making a personal assault on the editorial of the Register. The editorial in the Chicago Journal was instigated, and the communications in the Inter-Ocean and Tribune were either written or dictated by David L. Phillips, chief owner and manager of the Illinois Journal, partner in the printing of the Register, and undersigned makes this statement knowing whereof he affirms. In view of the dishonorable course pursued by Mr. Phillips, the undersigned will only state at this time that he proposes to go to the bottom of this matter and state his own views on good, great and honest man in all his natural characteristics, by simply giving to the public history based on facts.

If Mr. Phillips is influenced to make these unwarrantable personal assaults on me by other than merely mercenary selfish motives, I will start a fire in the rear, to divert public attention from the state printing scandal, and to direct the public to the Inter-Ocean, and other personal and political friends and associates; but the Register will not permit this to succeed. Mr. Phillips and his friends may carry their own loads, and meet their own responsibilities to the public, which the undersigned is always ready to do when called upon.

E. L. MERRITT.

THE ARGUS hopes that the printing steel and all other steals from the state will be ventilated and those who have been robbing the people be held up to public scorn, and punished, no matter who they are. There are plenty of rings in Springfield which ought to be broken.

Particulars of the Shooting of Colonel Anthony and the Causes Which led to it.

TOPEKA, Kan., May 11.—The killing of Colonel D. R. Anthony, editor of the Leavenworth Times, by W. W. Embury, editor of the Leavenworth Appeal, in that city, last night, has produced a profound sensation throughout the state. The quarrel which terminated in a tragedy has been going on for some time. It originated in some strictures made by Anthony in his paper upon certain actions of the Leavenworth Typographical Union, which Embury hotly repelled in the Appeal, following it up by damaging accusations against Anthony's official conduct. The Postmaster at Leavenworth, The parties had a little altercation on the street last Saturday evening, in which Embury struck or kicked Anthony, when the latter, without resenting the affront, retreated into an adjoining store. The fatal shooting last night occurred on the stairway of the Opera house between the acts of the play. Only a few words were exchanged, when Anthony struck Embury in the face, whereupon Embury drew a pistol and fired three shots, one of which took effect in Anthony's back. Anthony tottered to the top of the stairs, and sank fainting to a chair. An officer seized Embury and wrenched the pistol from him, and physicians were summoned to the relief of the wounded man. A slight examination sufficed to show that the hurt was fatal. This was about 10 o'clock, and Anthony lingered in great agony until early this morning. He retained his senses and gave full directions as to his business affairs.

When the report of the affray was noised around in the Opera house a general commotion ensued, and the performance was abruptly ended. Colonel Anthony's wife was in the audience, he having left her side only a few moments before the shooting took place. Embury was promptly lodged in jail, and Jack Downing, local reporter on the Commercial, was also arrested as an accessory to the assassination. The deceased was an old-time resident of Kansas, and one of the best-known men in the state. He had been prominent in local and state politics for a great many years, having served in the legislature, been Mayor of Leavenworth, chairman of the state Republican committee, and acted in other official capacities. At the breaking out of the rebellion he entered the army as Lieutenant Colonel of the Seventh Kansas Cavalry, the noted "jayhawker" regiment, commanded by Colonel Jennison. About a year ago he was appointed postmaster at Leavenworth, which position he held at the time of his death being also editor and proprietor of the Times newspaper of that city. He was also President of the State Editorial Association, and Secretary and Treasurer of the Kansas and Missouri Associated Press. His age was about 50 years.

Colonel Anthony was a man of uncommon energy, strong passions and prejudices, quick to anger, slow to forgive, and good at hating. His relations with political and professional rivals and antagonists were almost uniformly unpleasant. He held to his opinions with marked pertinacity, and expressed them bluntly, freely, and with little apparent concern as to consequences. He had several street altercations during his life, most of them growing out of politics, the most noted of which was with R. C. Satterlee, a Leavenworth editor, some years ago, whom he shot and killed. It is a queer coincidence that the circumstances attending this affray with Satterlee were almost precisely the same as those which attended his meeting with Embury last night, except that in the former instance Anthony did the shooting, while in the latter he received the fatal shot. Both occurrences took place in a stairway, and in each case the victim was unarmed. It is also worthy of note that Judge Sherry, the lawyer who defended and secured the acquittal of Anthony in his trial for the killing of Satterlee, has been retained to defend Embury in his coming trial for the killing of Anthony.

Opinions differ, of course, as to the relations and blame to be attached to Embury and Anthony in the matter of their quarrel; and the reports of the circumstances attending the final and fatal meeting last night are also somewhat conflicting. All are agreed, however, as to the leading facts herein set forth, and the sifting the details will have to be left, in all such cases, to the cool methods of the courts.

Politics in Iowa.

DES MOINES, Iowa, May 11.—A number of the different opposition state committees, with M. M. Ham, of the National Democratic, held a meeting at the Savary house this afternoon, and agreed upon a call for a state convention. The meeting was private, but those participating say they had but little trouble in agreeing upon the time and wording of the call. It is as follows:

A delegate convention of Democrats, Liberals, Anti-Monopolists, and all others opposed to the Times's legislative correspondence, is hereby called, to meet at Des Moines, on Thursday, June 24, at 11 o'clock a. m., for the purpose of nominating candidates for governor, lieutenant-governor, judge of the supreme court, a superintendent of public instruction, and for all other offices, and to take such other action as may properly come before the convention.

Delegates will be entitled to one delegate, and in addition thereto, one delegate for each 250 votes, or a fraction thereof over 100, cast for the Hon. David Morgan, for secretary of state in 1874.

The committees of the various counties are requested to take the proper steps toward calling county conventions, at which the delegates to this state convention shall be selected.

Democratic National Committee, J. D. CASE, Chairman.
Liberal Republican National Committee, G. A. PARKER, Chairman.
Secretary Anti-Monopoly State Committee, J. H. KEATLEY, Chairman.
Chairman Liberal Republican State Committee, JOHN P. LINS, Chairman Democratic State Committee.

Andrew Jackson Wilcox, a clerk in the Navy Department at Washington, has in his possession a cane which was presented to his grandfather, Andrew Jackson, by a committee representing the citizens of Tennessee. It is of the finest hickory wood, and was taken from a tree in the front garden of Gen. Jackson's plantation, the "Hermitage," a short distance from Nashville. The top is surmounted with a cap of solid silver, upon which is engraved the names of all the presidents of this country from 1776 to 1841, commencing with John Hancock and ending with John Tyler. Each of the prongs or knots is tipped with silver, upon which is engraved the names of the donors. There is also a whistle made in one of the knots, which was used by Gen. Jackson in calling his hounds. Upon the side is engraved the following:

"And may at last my weary age Find out the peaceful Hermitage."—[A friend.]

Boytan's Lightning Saws

Not One Failed in 20,000.

These are the only Saws in operation that are equivalent to the Fast Cutting and Clearing of a Hand Saw 100% ways, viz: going and coming. The slant edge between the points do not cut, but the vertical face of each M cutting, and the slant following, and vice versa, as drawn back and forth. The teeth are cutters. All teeth are clear, the length, strength, stiffness and durability of these teeth are obvious. Note also speed, ease, simplicity and clearness.

SPERER - If your points are dressed to cut in line, vertical or advancing cuts are more effective than retreating edges of old V cutters used by all other RASE - It is easier to plow a groove in timber than to cut out a stump.

SIMPLICITY - All points are the same length and cut their way. We do not now recommend thick blades and hook teeth, as they require so much shortening and re-adjustment.

CLEARANCE - Cutting by projecting faces, these M teeth clear like a law, simultaneously.

ITERS.

A Remedy without a Rival

Maguire's Cundurango Bitters.

Contains no alcohol, an excellent purgative for the bowels, relieving and curing all complaints of the Liver, Blood, Kidneys and Bladder. Read the following testimony from a prominent New York editor:

Office of Geo. H. Sweet, "Texas Star," New York City Sept. 8, 1874.

Messrs. J. & C. Maguire, St. Louis: Gentlemen—Yours of the 31st ult., with case of one Cundurango Bitters, came duly to hand. You will please accept my thanks for your generosity. I will try to put the medicine "where it will do the most good."

I have given one bottle to a friend of mine who resides in Brooklyn, both himself and wife have taken it, and their testimony is the same as mine. I first met with it in Houston, Texas, afterwards returned to my home in Austin, where I have the Texas branch office of my paper. I found that I could not obtain a single bottle in all Austin, for I went to every druggist in the place and there were some five, but each house told me they intended to order it on the strength of my recommendation. I am coming to New York, I was in California, and bought a bottle of Bitters, an old friend and a good house.
